Seamus McGraw

Seamus McGraw has been writing about crime and criminals for nearly 20 years.

He was formerly senior writer for the popular true crime site, APBnews, and before that, he was a columnist and crime writer for the Bergen Record. McGraw has won numerous journalism awards including the Associated Press Managing Editors Freedom of Information Award for a series of stories on police secrecy. Most recently, he was honored by the Casey Foundation for his reporting on issues involving Megan's Law.

McGraw has written for SPIN magazine, Stuff, Reader's Digest, LexisOne, and The Forward.

McGraw lives in the bear infested woods of Northeastern PA with his wife, Karen, four children, Miriam, Yona, Seneca and Liam, and their dogs, Girl, Dharma and Dogma.
